Bishop Juan Rodolfo Laise, O.F.M.Cap.: Rome Never Approved Communion in the Hand

The practice of receiving Communion in the hand has become so widespread throughout the Church that one might easily conclude that it has been approved by Rome. And those who are unfamiliar with the history of the Church's liturgical practices might think that this custom had been in use in previous centuries, to such an extent that it is a longstanding practice of the Church.

Both of these impressions are incorrect. The Most Rev. Juan Rodolfo Laise, Bishop Emeritus of San Luis, Argentina, wrote a book for the faithful of his diocese nearly two decades ago, in order to explain why he was preserving the only traditional practice of the Church for receiving Communion, which is Communion on the tongue. His Excellency demonstrates that the opposite practice, that of Communion in the hand, is not approved by the Church but instead is merely tolerated as an abuse, in very limited circumstances, in order to prevent a greater evil. The book is Communion in the Hand: Documents and History.

Bishop Laise begins by transcribing the complete texts of the two Vatican documents that constitute the Church's current laws governing the reception of Communion. Their meaning and purpose are very clear. Because the practice of Communion in the hand had been introduced in certain regions without Rome's permission, in violation of the Church's laws, the Holy See, after consultation with the bishops, established norms whereby individual bishops, when faced with this disobedience within their dioceses, could allow the practice on a limited basis. The obvious purpose of this legislation by Rome was to avoid a greater evil, that of a more intensive revolt against the authority of the Church. An individual bishop's authorization to act in this manner depended in turn on a general request to be made by the episcopal conferences of individual countries, followed by authorization from Rome. In this manner the practice of Communion in the hand could be limited to those regions where the abuse arose, preventing the disobedient practice from spreading elsewhere in the Church.

In the decades that followed the enactment of this legislation, however, many individual bishops as well as representatives of episcopal conferences did not examine the legislative texts carefully, and began to introduce the practice on a widespread basis, overlooking the strict requirements imposed by the Holy See for the purpose of limiting its use. As a result this practice became almost universal, which is the very situation that Rome emphatically wanted to prevent. It was an abuse that the Church never approved, but merely tolerated in order to avoid the greater evil of widespread rebellion against the authority of the Church.

The second false impression that Bishop Laise disproves and corrects is the mistaken idea that Communion in the hand is a longstanding tradition in the Church, having its origins in the early Church, and that the reintroduction of it today is merely the revival of an ancient tradition. In disproving this theory Bishop Laise enters into a profound and detailed analysis of what constitutes authentic tradition within the Church and how the Church employs the principles of natural law and canon law in governing the faithful, while preserving the Church's doctrinal, moral and liturgical traditions. Bishop Laise's book is therefore a simple but comprehensive explanation of the Church's profound love and respect for the Real Presence of Our Lord in the Holy Eucharist.

ORDERING INFORMATION

Each book is identified by name, author, year published, number of pages (p) and price. "IL" stands for illustrated and "pb" for paperback where applicable. Condition of each book is identified as follows: (E) Excellent, (VG) Very Good, (G) Good, (F) Fair, (P) Poor. "Bi" and "Pg" refer to binding and pages respectively.

Because we specialize in used and out-of-print books, we frequently have only one or two copies of many of our titles. Refunds are made for books that are no longer available. Books reserved by telephone are held for our customers, and then are mailed as soon as possible after receipt of payment. Books for which payment has not been received after fifteen days are made available for sale to other customers.

Books in Print: In addition to our used books we also offer a selection of new books, primarily reprints of formerly out-of-print works. New books are listed in our section "Books in Print." Discounts on quantity orders (applies only to books in print, not to used and out-of-print books) are available: 10% on orders of three or more copies, 20% for ten or more. Larger discounts are available to bookstores.

Printed Catalog & Web Site: Our printed catalog offers many of our newly acquired titles, while our web site contains much of the cataloged inventory that does not appear in the most recent printed catalog. We invite you to examine each of these inventory lists – the printed catalog because it offers the most recent acquisitions, and the web site because of its more extensive listing of approximately 5,000 titles.

Visit the PCP, Inc. Internet web site at www.pcpbooks.net for our inventory of approximately 5,000 titles.

Fatima, the Errors of Russia, and Two Catholic Classics

One century after the publication in 1851 of Spaniard Juan Donoso Cortés's Catholicism, Liberalism and Socialism, Italian-born American Bella Dodd published, in 1954, her autobiographical work School of Darkness. The crisis of our time that Donoso Cortés foresaw in the nineteenth century, Bella Dodd experienced as coming to fruition in the twentieth. And in between the publication of these two works Our Lady appeared in Fatima in 1917, warning that Russia would spread her errors throughout the world.

Why was Russia singled out by Our Lady? There is the obvious connection with Communism, which came to power in Russia in the same year as Our Lady's apparitions. But Soviet Communism ended, at least officially, before the close of the twentieth century. And Russia is a Christian nation, which in recent years has passed certain laws that make it appear less decadent than the secularized West. However, even before the Communist Revolution, Russia was associated with the Caesaropapism originating with the Byzantine Empire, which meant a certain domination of religion by the State, and of Russian Orthodoxy over Catholicism.

Juan Donoso Cortés foresaw the direction in which modern society was going, and his name is even associated with providing information to Blessed Pius IX for the writing of the Syllabus of Errors. This English translation of his book contains a handwritten blessing by Pius IX to the translator, Madeleine Vinton Goddard, penned the month after she wrote to him. What Donoso foresaw was the increase in the power of the modern secular State corresponding to a decline in respect for the authority of the Church. This development was rooted in rationalism's declaring reason to be independent of the guidance of the Faith. It then takes political form through liberalism, or a false liberty based upon a denial of sin, combined with a denial of the role of the family within society, and the disassociation of property ownership from the family and from religious institutions. And when this liberalism is taken to its ultimate consequences, it results in socialism.

What Donoso foresaw, Bella Dodd experienced personally, as she drifted away from the Catholic Faith of her childhood and became involved in the American Communist Party. During all the years of this involvement she saw the inner workings of Communism in America in collaboration with the party of Moscow. She witnessed how Russian Communism orchestrated the activities of its party in America as well as in western European countries, seen in Communism's shifts in policy between Russia and Nazi Germany.

Donoso Cortés had been influenced by liberalism in his early years, but came to see the error of its principles to become one of its most ardent opponents. Similarly, Bella Dodd came to see the errors of her past, and that Communism was not promoting the brotherhood of man because it denied God, and she realized that society can only be reformed through the sanctification of individuals first.

The lessons taught by Donoso Cortés and Bella Dodd are more urgent today than ever, not as if Russia alone were behind the worldwide spread of socialism, but rather because these errors have become dominant virtually everywhere. The persecution of Christians in regions such as the Middle East and Africa is a consequence of the growth of the modern totalitarian State. For this reason these two books by Donoso Cortés and Bella Dodd are truly Catholic classics, as instructive for us of the twenty-first century as they were for our Catholic forefathers when they were written.
