The Vine and the Branches

Two Bishops a Century Apart, And Two Divergent Interpretations

"The Truth of Papal Claims, by Raphael Cardinal Merry del Val, which Preserving Christian Publications has recently reprinted . . . is a worthy edition of an important Catholic work." – Raymond Leo Cardinal Burke

"A 'branch theory' has been devised as a compromise with which to satisfy the yearnings of many an aching heart. But, alas! without avail. We too hold a 'branch theory,' but the branch theory of which our Blessed Saviour spoke. Branches there are, and there must be, in the One Church, but not branches without a stem and cut off from the vine, with their leaves withered 'High' and 'Low' and 'Broad.' Our Lord spoke of such branches, and said: 'If any one abide not in Me, he shall be cast forth as a branch, and shall wither' [John xv. 6]. The Church is the mystical Body of Christ, and where Peter is, there is the Church, as the Fathers said of old."

– Archbishop Rafael Merry del Val, 1902
later Cardinal Secretary of State to Pope St. Pius X

"...we can come together this day, Lutherans and Catholics.... What we're doing...has not always been possible. The image of the vine and the branches in St. John's Gospel was really not in control...almost as if our two traditions were two vines...or that some of the branches were missing."

– Bishop Richard J. Malone, Buffalo, New York
Western New York Catholic, May 2017, p. 11

The above quoted bishops, a hundred and fifteen years apart, give two different interpretations of the words of Our Lord in St. John's Gospel. At the First Vatican Council in 1870 the French prelate Archbishop Dupanloup, along with some other bishops, proposed that the Mystical Body of Christ is larger than the Catholic Church, but that theory was not adopted by the Council Fathers. The First Vatican Council was not able to promulgate its prepared decree on the Church, but subsequent Popes in two encyclicals defined the nature of the one true Church. Pope Leo XIII in Divinum Illud in 1897 wrote that the Holy Spirit is the Soul of the Mystical Body the Church, and Pope Pius XII in Mystici Corporis Christi in 1943 explained that the Catholic Church alone is the Mystical Body, and that the Holy Ghost is the Soul of this living Body of Christ. Non-Catholic denominations therefore are branches that are cut off from this Vine which is Our Lord Jesus Christ. And, as Our Lord Himself explained, a branch cut off from this Vine withers and dies.

Pope Pius XII further warned that the eternal salvation of non-Catholics is endangered precisely because they do not have the full means of grace that are available within the Catholic Church alone. The Lutherans whom Bishop Malone was addressing, for example, are lacking the priesthood, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and the Sacrament of Penance. The true charity that Catholics show to Lutherans is not one of ignoring these truths, but rather that of explaining to them that only the Catholic Church can be their true home.

Cardinal Merry del Val's 1902 book The Truth of Papal Claims was written in response to an Anglican theologian in Rome who was challenging Catholic teaching regarding papal authority. Sacred Scripture, the Fathers of the Church and the Ecumenical Councils are all brought together in this book to show that the Catholic Church alone possesses the living branches, and the Vine which is Our Lord Jesus Christ is His Mystical Body, the Catholic Church.

The Truth of Papal Claims:

A Reply to "The Validity of Papal Claims" of F. Nutcombe Oxenham

xvi 129p + 15p appendix hardback $16 #55743

Cardinal Merry del Val on the Authority of the Pope

"Hence Dr. Oxenham may learn, that by Infallibility we do not mean 'impeccability' or sinlessness in the person of S. Peter or of his successors, who are accountable to God for their own consciences and their own lives like every other human being; ... we do not mean that the Roman Pontiff receives special revelations from heaven, or that by a revelation of the Holy Spirit he may invent or teach new doctrines not contained in the deposit of Faith, though, when occasion offers, and especially in times of conflict, he may define a point which all have not clearly recognized in that Faith, or which some may be striving to put out of view. Nor do we mean that every utterance that proceeds from the Pope's mouth, or from the Pope's pen, is infallible because it is his. Great as our filial duty of reverence is towards whatever he may say, great as our duty of obedience must be to the guidance of the Chief Shepherd, we do not hold that every word of his is infallible, or that he must always be right. Much less do we dream of teaching that he is infallible, or in any degree superior to other men, when he speaks on matters that are scientific, or historical, or political, or that he may not make mistakes of judgment in dealing with contemporary events, with men and things" [pp. 18-19].

This statement in 1902 of Archbishop Rafael Merry de Val was his answer to the Protestant theologian in Rome, F. Nutcombe Oxenham, who challenged Catholic teaching on the authority of the Pope. He summarized the Anglican chaplain's position as follows: "...Dr. Oxenham imagines, like so many other Protestants, that the Catholic doctrine of the infallibility of S. Peter and of his successors implies impeccability, which no Pope, no Council, no Catholic theologian ever dreamt of asserting" [pp. 6-7].

"Does Dr. Oxenham imagine that even today a Bishop might not expostulate with a Pope, who, in his judgment, might be acting in a way which was liable to mislead those under his own charge...? The hypothesis is quite conceivable, and in no way destroys or diminishes the supremacy of the Pope. And yet an individual Bishop does not occupy the exceptional position of S. Paul, a fellow-Apostle of the Prince of the Apostles. Even a humble nun, S.

Catherine of Siena, expostulated with the reigning Pontiff, in her day, while fully acknowledging all his great prerogatives" [p. 74].

"We may conclude this argument with another text from S. Chrysostom, who again steps in to refute Dr. Oxenham's views about S. Peter. 'Observe his (Paul's) prudence,' writes that Father of the Greek Church, 'he said not to him (Peter), thou dost wrong in living as a Jew, but he alleges his (Peter's) former mode of living, that the admonition and the counsel may seem to come, not from Paul's mind, but from the judgment of Peter already expressed. For, had he said, thou dost wrong to keep the Law, Peter's disciples would have blamed him, but now, hearing that this admonition and correction came, not from Paul's judgment, but that Peter himself so lived, and held in his mind this belief whether they would or not, they were obliged to be quiet' [Hom. in loc.]" [pp. 74-75].

The Common Good, Mr. Ferrara and the Pope

Noted attorney and author Christopher Ferrara (Catholic Family News, June 2017, pp. 3, 25) found a recent statement by Pope Francis about libertarianism to be an opportunity to develop his own thinking about the common good and Catholic social doctrine. Both the Pope and Mr. Ferrara see in libertarianism the antithesis of Catholic teaching on the nature of human society, but Mr. Ferrara maintains that Pope Francis himself makes a concession to libertarianism in a rejection of the notion of a Christian commonwealth.

Our present analysis is not about the merits or demerits of Mr. Ferrara's disagreement with the Pope, but rather about Mr. Ferrara's own perspective on Catholic social doctrine. Libertarianism is a term currently used to characterize what in former times was known as liberalism – not in the sense that it is currently used politically in English-speaking countries, but in the original sense as analyzed by Juan Donoso Cortés in his Essay on Catholicism, Liberalism and Socialism (1851). The liberal or libertarian is one who thinks about the rights of the individual without a corresponding consideration of one's duty to the common good of society, whereas the socialist, under the guise of correcting the evils of liberalism, advocates unlimited government intervention to regulate all social action.

The Contemporary Threat: Libertarianism or Socialism?

What Pope Francis and Christopher Ferrara appear to have in common is a concern about libertarianism as being a principal threat to the contemporary social order. Juan Donoso Cortés, writing more than a century and a half ago, predicted a very different conflict, not one between Catholicism and libertarianism or liberalism, but between Catholicism and socialism – not because libertarianism is not an error against a Christian social order, but rather because libertarianism would give way to socialism. Liberalism and socialism alike, according to Donoso Cortés, share the same fundamental principles in their rejection of the true principles of the Faith and Christian morality, but the socialist is more consistent and honest in that he takes these common principles to their ultimate consequences. For this reason, as Donoso Cortés foresaw, libertarianism would disappear in the ultimate conflict, and Catholicism and socialism would be the only remaining combatants in the struggle of our times. “The liberal school, fearing at the same time both light and darkness,” Donoso Cortés wrote, “has undertaken to govern without a people and without God; an extravagant and impossible attempt. Its days are numbered, because we see God appearing at one point of the horizon, and at the other the people. On the terrible day of battle, when the entire field will be covered with Catholic and socialist combatants, no one will know where to find this school of liberalism” (Book II, Chapter VIII, “Solutions of the liberal school. . .,” page 116).

What Donoso foresaw in 1851, Our Lady of Fatima confirmed in 1917 when She foretold that the errors of Russia would spread throughout the world if Her requests were not heeded. And as Sister Lúcia wrote to Pope John Paul II on May 12, 1982, Our Lady's requests were not in fact heeded, and Russia's errors have therefore spread throughout the world. However, since today both Pope Francis and Mr. Ferrara see libertarianism as a major threat to the social order in our time, it is important to analyze this perspective, but focusing specifically on the arguments of Mr. Ferrara.

In explaining the modern revolt against the common good, and against the Catholic social order that once embodied this ideal, Christopher Ferrara does not describe the breakup of the Catholic social order as being due to the three modern revolutions against Christian Civilization: the Protestant Reformation in 1517, the French Revolution of 1789, and the Russian Revolution of 1917 – analyzed in depth by Plinio Corrêa de Oliveira in his well known work Revolution and Counter-Revolution. Instead, Mr. Ferrara associates the French Revolution with the independence of the United States: “The Christian commonwealth that was overthrown and destroyed . . . during the democratic revolution, beginning in 1776 and 1789.” By referring to 1776 Mr. Ferrara confuses a political question – that of popular government which Catholic political philosophy, following the ancient Greeks, recognized as a legitimate form of government along with monarchy and aristocracy – with a religious question: the principles and laws of Christian Civilization, built through the influence of the Church during the course of the Middle Ages.

In contrast with Christopher Ferrara's identification of the breakup of Christendom with the independence of the United States in the late eighteenth century – and, by implication, with the independence of the nations of Latin America during the nineteenth century – President Donald Trump presented a different interpretation of western Christian civilization during his recent address in Warsaw, Poland, where he spoke about a “community of nations” – not the secular United Nations, but rather those nations that represent the legacy of medieval Christendom. This was implied very clearly when he referred to Poland as being geographically the heart of Europe, while, in its people, it represents the “soul of Europe.” Donald Trump, as president of a predominantly non-Catholic country in the New World, was nevertheless acknowledging the spiritual and moral role of Europe and in particular of Catholic Poland. Mr. Ferrara's negative characterization of the existence of the United States, on the other hand, as an independent nation beginning in 1776, makes it difficult to understand the historical realities that President Trump was referring to in his speech to the Catholics of Poland – concerning the role of Europe, and the community of nations that Europe gave rise to with its former colonies throughout the world.

Libertarianism Evolved into Socialism and Communism, Not the Reverse

Historically the Church did not treat the birth of new nations in the Americas as the destruction of the ideal of a Christian commonwealth, but rather as part of the expansion of her missionary efforts, in this case to the nations of the New World. While Mr. Ferrara critically analyzes Pope Francis's defense of the laicist modern state, he himself introduces as an alternative an interpretation of modern history that is itself not solely religious, but political, an analysis based on purely political arguments rather than on the explicit teaching of the Magisterium and on the Church's missionary work. Political considerations about national independence and forms of government overshadow as a result the primary mission of the Church and the historical development of Christian culture and civilization.

It is for this reason that it is necessary to analyze the philosophy that is implied in Mr. Ferrara's arguments. Whereas Juan Donoso Cortés saw liberalism or libertarianism evolving into socialism, and Our Lady of Fatima warned six and a half decades later about the spread of the errors of Russia, the debate within the Church today concerns which of the two evils, libertarianism or socialism, constitutes the predominant threat to the Church. Those who would assume that libertarianism is the primary threat would have to conclude that Our Lady of Fatima was not talking about socialism and Communism when She referred to the errors of Russia, and that by "errors of Russia" She somehow meant the errors of libertarianism instead, a theory which would make little sense in the context of modern history.

The evidence of the historical facts confirms rather than disproves the predictions of Juan Donoso Cortés. The liberalism or libertarianism of the nineteenth century gave way to the totalitarian systems of the twentieth century – Communism, Nazism and Fascism. Bella Dodd, the Italian immigrant who returned to the Church after years of activity in the Communist Party in the United States, analyzed in detail the work of the Communists from Moscow, organizing Communist subversion in other countries, in her book School of Darkness. These two books, Catholicism, Liberalism and Socialism and School of Darkness, reprinted by Preserving Christian Publications, serve as two companion volumes for understanding the crisis of our time, interpreted in the light of Fatima. A failure to appreciate what Our Lady of Fatima meant by the errors of Russia possibly explains why many Catholics, prominent among them being Christopher Ferrara, have mistakenly concluded that the Vatican did not publish the entire Third Secret of Fatima. They have reasoned instead that the published text of the Secret did not adequately reveal Our Lady of Fatima's message. This serious error regarding Fatima is analyzed in detail in our booklet Fatima and the Third Secret.

Juan Donoso Cortés in the mid nineteenth century foresaw the crisis that the Church and the world would face in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. In the mid twentieth century Bella Dodd recorded her own experiences with the Communist Party, the spreading of its errors foretold by Our Lady in Fatima in 1917. And with the publication of the Third Secret in 2000, Catholics worldwide can now understand what Sister Lúcia meant in her explanation of the Third Secret to Pope John Paul II in 1982. Rather than the errors of liberalism or libertarianism as analyzed by Christopher Ferrara, it is instead the transformation of the principles of liberalism into the more radical errors of socialism and communism, spreading throughout the world, that constitutes the primary threat to the Church and Christian Civilization in our time.

We need to pray. And we need to read.... If we don't read, we condemn ourselves to chronic stupidity and a conditioning by mass media that have no sympathy for the things we believe. Television is not a channel for serious thought. It's often just the opposite. And the internet, for all its advantages, is too often a source of isolation.

Communion in the Hand: Documents & History

by Bishop Juan Rodolfo Laise, O.F.M.Cap.

Excerpt from Part IV, Conclusions:

... the new practice has not been desired by the Holy See . . . but rather has only been permitted due to the unyielding insistence of some episcopal conferences (especially in Protestant countries); and this only after a completely abusive introduction which was not possible to resist, in spite of the complaints and prohibitions from Rome.

Therefore the habitual reading of the document is false. According to this reading, in the face of the various petitions and the results of the consultation with the bishops, the pope decided to grant the practice of both rites to the episcopal conferences that requested it. In reality, the purpose of MD [Memoriale Domini] was not to be an instrument for the adoption of Communion in the hand but rather to maintain its prohibition. All of the reasons cited by the pope for this are of great weight. They have a solid basis and enjoy permanent validity as they confirm the concern for avoiding all that has the appearance of irreverence towards God in the Real Presence in the Eucharist. The introduction of this change is of enormous importance because, given that the treatment of the Eucharist is pedagogic, the lack of concern for the Particles does harm the doctrine. Communion on the tongue, on the other hand, is a sign of the real and substantial presence of the Lord and of the essential distinction between the common priesthood of the faithful and the ministerial priesthood.

Frequently one minimizes the danger of desecration, saying that it always existed. . . . With the Communion in the hand a miracle would be needed so that in each Communion some Particle not fall or remain in the hand of the faithful.

Catena Aurea – Commentary on the Four Gospels: Collected out of the Works of the Fathers [in 4 volumes]

Saint Thomas Aquinas

St. Thomas Aquinas' incredible commentary on the books of the Gospel is now available again in an elegant hardcover set. Compiling the works of the Early Church Fathers (over 80 are featured!), the Angelic Doctor presents a comprehensive and erudite exegesis of the Scriptural books that specifically recount the life of Our Lord Jesus Christ. The English translation of the original Latin text contained in this set is especially noteworthy as it was edited by John Henry Newman (1801-1890). The work of several years, though first published in 1842, this accurate translation has stood the test of time and is still cherished by serious students of the Holy Gospels. In fact Newman co-wrote in one of the Catena's introductions that while previous ecclesiastical writers had also compiled such Patristic texts, nevertheless "...they [the earlier compositions] are very inferior to the Catena Aurea..." Originally published as an 8 volume set, our reprinted edition has been bound into 4 volumes allowing the production of an elegant hardcover set, but for an economical price! Each volume features original-quality text reprinted on fine, natural-colored paper, sewn-binding, handsomely hardbound in an antique-style khaki rattan Kidskin with red embossing on the covers and spines, and a red marking ribbon.

A Commentary on The Book of Psalms

Saint Robert Bellarmine

Translated by Fr John O’Sullivan 2008 382 pages (from 1866 edition) with ribbon & dust jacket, hardback, cloth cover #55670 – $52.

The Psalms constitute the most important Old Testament book, insofar as the Church has made them a part of her prayer, the Divine Office, recited or chanted by clergy and religious, as well as using them in the propers of the Mass, prayers at the foot of the altar, etc. In the early centuries many of the laity knew the Psalms by heart, and during the Middle Ages laymen oftentimes continued to pray the Psalms in the Little Office of the Blessed Virgin, one of the most widely read books during that era. Because the Psalms are filled with prophecies about the Messias, His Passion and Death, foreshadowed in the sufferings of King David, they nourish the spiritual lives of Catholics, who are called to share in the sufferings of Our Lord as members of His Mystical Body.

Pope Leo XIII and the Prayer to St. Michael

by Kevin J. Symonds

“In his book Pope Leo XIII and the Prayer to St. Michael Mr. Kevin Symonds presents a very careful and competent historical research about the origin and the circumstances of the publication of the prayer to St. Michael...Furthermore he gives also a rich spiritual reflection on the Divine truth about the Holy Angels, the fallen angels and the reality and necessity of the spiritual battle. Mr. Symonds’ book is indeed very relevant for our times. May this book become widespread and raise to many Catholics—especially the clergy—a new awareness of the necessity to use the spiritual means which God and His Church have given us in order to fight against the infiltration and attacks of the evil spirits.”

Essay on Catholicism, Liberalism & Socialism: Considered in Their Fundamental Principles

Juan Donoso Cortés

translated by Madeleine Vincent Goddard / a sketch of the life & works of the author by G. E. de Castro introduction by Frederick D. Wilhelmsen

“I am come in the name of my Father, and you receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him you will receive” (Jn. 5:43). In these words our Lord announced the natural triumph of error over truth, of evil over good. They contain the secret of the universal forgetfulness of God, of the terrible propagation of pagan superstitions, and of the gloomy darkness prevailing over the world. They also foretell the spread of error among men, the tribulations of the Church, the persecutions of the just, the victories of the sophists, and the popularity of blasphemers. These words are a summary of history, with all its scandals, all its heresies, and all its revolutions. They also explain why the Jewish people, when called upon to choose between Barabbas and Jesus, condemned Jesus and liberated Barabbas; and why the world today, having the power of choice between Catholic theology and socialism, chooses socialism and rejects Catholicism; and why human discussions result in the denial of the evident and in the acceptance of the absurd [Book I, Chapter VI, “That our Lord Jesus Christ has triumphed over the world exclusively by supernatural means,” p. 40].

“The liberal school, fearing at the same time both light and darkness . . . has undertaken to govern without a people and without God; an extravagant and impossible attempt. Its days are numbered, because we see God appearing at one point of the horizon, and at the other the people. On the terrible day of battle, when the entire field will be covered with Catholic and socialist combatants, no one will know where to find this school of liberalism” [Book II, Chapter VIII, “Solutions of the liberal school...,” page 116].
